Case No. 10-CV-01234-CAB (KSC)

Declaration of Max Ciccarelli in Support of Southwest's Application for Reasonable and Necessary Fees

2 I, Max Ciccarelli, declare under penalty of perjury that the following
3 statements are true and correct:

4 1. I am a partner with Thompson & Knight LLP, over the age of 18 and 5 competent to state all matters herein from my own personal knowledge.

6 2. I am licensed to practice law in Texas and admitted pro hac vice to 7 appear before this Court in connection with the above-captioned matter. I have been 8 the lead attorney for Southwest responsible for this matter since Southwest's first 9 pleading in this case. I have personal knowledge of the facts contained in this 10 declaration and, if called to testify, would and could testify competently thereto.

11 3. I submit this declaration in support of Southwest's Application for 12 Reasonable and Necessary Fees in this matter, including fees and costs incurred from 13 Thompson & Knight.

14 4. I am a partner at Thompson & Knight specializing in intellectual-15 property litigation with over 20 years of experience.

16 5. I, along with the following Thompson & Knight attorneys, performed
17 the majority of the work on this matter from 2010 to today:

18 Michael Heinlen - partner specializing in intellectual-property litigation with
19 over 14 years of experience.

20 Justin Cohen - associate specializing in intellectual-property litigation with
21 over 8 years of experience.

22 Vishal Patel – associate specializing in intellectual-property litigation with 23 over 7 years of experience.
24
25
26
27
28

1 6. The following table lists the hourly rates for each of the above-named
2 attorneys actually charged for handling this matter during the course of the roughly 5
3 years that this case has been pending:

Attorney	Hourly Rate
Max Ciccarelli	$505 – $625.50
Michael Heinlen	$405 – $535.50
Justin Cohen	$345 – $481.50
Vishal Patel	$270 – $315

10
11 7. Attached as Exhibit 1 are true and correct copies of all of Thompson &
12 Knight’s invoices sent to Southwest in connection with this matter, with minor 13 redactions. The total amount of the invoices in Exhibit 1 is $432,800.84, which 14 includes $397,033.11 of attorneys’ fees and $35,767.73 in costs.

15 8. In addition to the amounts shown in Exhibit 1, Southwest has also 16 incurred $10,323.00 in attorneys’ fees that have not yet been submitted to Southwest.
17 Nearly all of these unbilled fees were incurred preparing this application for 18 attorneys’ fees.

19 9. Defending this case for Southwest involved handling the district court
20 litigation and two inter partes reexaminations in the U.S. Patent and Trademark 21 Office.

22 10. On behalf of Southwest, Thompson & Knight requested and prosecuted
23 the reexaminations of two of Deep Sky’s patents, namely U.S. Patent No. 6,378,770
24 (“the ’770 Patent,” which was at issue in this case) and U.S. Patent No. 7,370,047
25 (“the ’047 Patent, which is related to the ’770 Patent).
26
27
28

1 11. With respect to the reexamination of the '770 Patent – the patent at issue
2 in the litigation – Thompson & Knight chose to litigate the validity of that patent
3 before the PTO instead of before the district court because the PTO provided a lower-
4 cost alternative to resolving that issue. As evidenced by the joint motion to stay the 5 district court litigation [Doc. No. 26], Deep Sky agreed that litigating the issue at the 6 PTO would be cheaper than litigating it in district court.

7 12. With respect to the '047 Patent, Southwest requested reexamination of 8 that patent because, although not asserted in the lawsuit, Deep Sky had filed a
9 broadening reissue application in the PTO and threatened to assert the '047 Patent
10 against Southwest at the completion of the broadening reissue proceeding.

11 13. Southwest is not requesting attorneys' fees or costs associated with 12 handling the reexamination of the '047 Patent. Therefore, as explained in more 13 detail below, Southwest is deducting the fees and costs associated with the 14 reexamination of the '047 Patent from the amounts it billed Southwest in connection
15 with this matter.

16 14. Attached as Exhibit 2 is a summary of those attorneys' fees and costs
17 associated with handling the reexamination of Deep Sky's '047 Patent, with minor
18 redactions. The best estimate of the total amount of attorneys' fees and costs that 19 Southwest incurred in connection with the reexamination of the '047 Patent is 20 $64,156.95, which is not included in Southwest's application for attorneys' fees.

21 15. The '047 Patent is a continuation of the '770 Patent, shares the same
22 specification, and includes similar claims. Southwest used much of the same prior art
23 in both reexaminations, and Deep Sky used many of the same arguments, evidence, 24 and declarations in both reexaminations. Therefore, the fees for handling the 25 reexamination of the '047 Patent were modest as compared to the fees for handling
26 the litigation and reexamination of the '770 Patent.

1 16. Southwest has paid all of the fees and costs submitted with this request,
2 except for the $10,323 that has not yet been billed to Southwest.

3 17. The following data is from AIPLA's Economic Survey for 2013:

- 4 a. for cases with $1 million to $10 million at risk, the average
5 litigation costs are $1.229 million and $1.6 million in the 3rd
6 quartile through discovery alone;
- 7 b. for cases with $1 million to $10 million at risk, the average
8 litigation costs are $2.1 million inclusive of all costs;
- 9 c. for cases with $10 million to $25 million at risk, the average
10 litigation costs are $2.192 million and $3.0 million in the 3rd
11 quartile through discovery alone;
- 12 d. for cases with $10 million to $25 million at risk, the average
13 litigation costs are $3.554 million inclusive of all costs;
- 14 e. the average cost for an inter partes reexamination, inclusive of an 15 appeal to the Board, is $201,000;
- 16 f. for firms in Texas, the average cost for an inter partes
17 reexamination, inclusive of an appeal to the Board, is $250,000,
18 and the 3rd quartile for firms in Texas is $475,000;
- 19 g. for firms in the San Francisco area, the average cost for an inter
20 partes reexamination, inclusive of an appeal to the Board, is 21 $264,000, and the 3rd quartile for firms in San Francisco is 22 $375,000;
- 23 h. for a partner in a Texas law firm, the average hourly rate charged 24 is $546, and those in the 3rd quartile charge $678 per hour;
- 25 i. for a partner in a Los Angeles-area law firm, the average hourly
26 rate charged is $557, and those in the 3rd quartile charge $675 per
27 hour;
- 28 j. for a partner in a San Francisco-area law firm, the average hourly

1 rate charged is $673, and those in the 3rd quartile charge $825 per
2 hour;

3 k. for an associate in a Texas law firm, the average hourly rate
4 charged is $391, and those in the 3rd quartile charge $518 per
5 hour;

6 l. for an associate in a Los Angeles-area law firm, the average
7 hourly rate charged is $389, and those in the 3rd quartile charge
8 $503 per hour; and

9 m. for an associate in a San Francisco-area law firm, the average
10 hourly rate charged is $460, and those in the 3rd quartile charge
11 $576 per hour.

12 18. Based on my review of the above-referenced documents and on my 13 knowledge of the case as lead counsel for Southwest from the beginning of the 14 matter, I believe that the attorneys' fees and costs referenced herein are reasonable.
15 Specifically, it is my professional opinion that both the rates charged for the work and 16 the number of hours spent are reasonable.

17 19. I have also reviewed the declaration of John Giust, and its attachments,
18 being submitted in this matter. Based on my review of those documents and on my 19 knowledge of the case as lead counsel for Southwest from the beginning of the 20 matter, I believe that the attorneys' fees and costs referenced in the declaration of 21 John Giust are reasonable. Specifically, it is my professional opinion that both the 22 rates charged for the work and the number of hours spent are reasonable.

23 20. Attached as Exhibit 3 is a true and correct copy of a letter that I received
24 from Jonathan Pettit dated March 25, 2011 in connection with this case.

OFFER MADE PURSUANT TO FRE 408 SETTLEMENT DISCUSSIONS ONLY

Re: Deep Sky Software, Inc. v. Southwest Airlines Co., Case No. 10-cv-1234-MMA (CAB),
United States District Court for the Southern District of California

Dear Max:

Deep Sky extends their thanks to you and Southwest Airlines' representatives for your careful and thorough analysis of this matter and for the time invested in speaking with our firm and Deep Sky representatives to date. We appreciate your good faith efforts to resolve this dispute. We provide this letter as an attempt to provide our analysis of the references you have disclosed and propose licensing terms to resolve the matter on amicable terms. As such, this communication should be treated as a confidential settlement communication per Federal Rules of Evidence section 408 and California Rules of Evidence section 1152.

I. Summary of Events To Date

On June 9, 2010, Deep Sky filed suit in the Southern District of California against Southwest for infringement of U.S. Patent No. 6,738,770 ("the '770 Patent"), entitled a "System and Method for Filtering and Sorting Data." As you are aware, the '770 Patent is directed to a method for interactive filtering and sorting data contained in a database using a computer system.

Southwest owns and operates a flight reservation system on its Internet website that sells airline flights to its customers. It is Deep Sky's contention that Southwest's online reservation system infringes claims of the '770 Patent and therefore Southwest must obtain a license from Deep Sky for past damages and future use of Deep Sky's patented technology.

On December 1, 2010, the parties participated in a Rule 26(f) Settlement and Case Management Conference at Southwest's Headquarters in Dallas, Texas. On December 20, 2010, the parties exchanged Rule 26(a) Initial Disclosures and filed the parties' Joint Report of the Rule 26(f) Conference with the Court. On December 27, 2010, the parties participated in the Early Neutral Evaluation/Case Management Conference in front of Magistrate Judge Bencivengo as required by the Southern District Local Rules. At the ENE Conference, the parties discussed their respective positions in the case, as well as potential settlement scenarios. During the Conference, Deep Sky made an offer to Southwest to settle the case for a sum of $1,000,000 in return for a non-exclusive license to the asserted and other relevant claims of the '770 Patent. This offer was rejected by Southwest. In response, Southwest apparently made a counter-offer (in the form of a statement through Magistrate Judge Bencivengo) that it was willing to pay "something in the 5-figure range" to settle the case. Deep Sky rejected this counter-offer.

Since the ENE Conference, the parties proceeded on the claim construction discovery timeline set by Magistrate Judge Bencivengo. On January 10, 2011, Deep Sky provided its Preliminary Infringement Contentions to Southwest. On March 10, 2011, however, the Judge granted the parties' Joint Motion to Modify Case Management Dates in order for the parties to discuss settlement possibilities. According to the new case schedule, Southwest must provide its Preliminary Invalidity Contentions to Deep Sky on April 8, 2011, and discovery related to damages has been stayed until April 14, 2011.

At the ENE, Southwest disclosed that it intended to file a Request for Reexamination of the '770 Patent with the US Patent and Trademark Office and simultaneously request a stay in this proceeding. Magistrate Judge Bencivengo stated Judge Anello would consider such a request after Southwest's submission of its Invalidity Contentions. Our impression was that such a stay was not guaranteed.

II. Southwest's Alleged Prior Art

To facilitate your understanding of Deep Sky's position in this matter we provide the following summary analysis of the art provided to us by Southwest Airlines in December 2010. Our analysis reveals that the alleged prior art can be logically divided into three groups as follows:

- A. The first group encompasses patents describing a user searching information contained in a computerized database ("Search Patents").
- B. The second group includes art describing finding a word in a list on a character-by-character basis as a user types characters into a cell ("Character-by-Character Art"). In this second group, the associated program(s) respond, on a character-by-character basis, to a user typing letters into the cell. During the Dallas meeting you referred to this method as "incremental searching."
- C. Additionally, you have provided a third group from with priority dates from the year 2000 ("Year 2000 References") which we do not believe to be anticipatory.

As a courtesy to your client, we provide our summary analysis of each group below.

A. The Search Patents Do Not Anticipate Dr. Gorman's Invention

The Search Patents in the first group provided by Southwest includes two pre-year 2000 references: the Marshall Patent and the Groff Patent.

1. The Marshall Patent

The Marshall Patent discloses a searching procedure using terms selected from drop-down menus, where the selection of search criteria in one column influences results displayed in different columns. The Marshall Patent, however, does not disclose incremental searching as disclosed in Dr. Gorman's Patent. Further, the Marshall Patent does not disclose a user searching by de novo entry of search criteria. To search with a term, a user must first find the term by selecting from drop down menus. (See, e.g., Fig. 11, p. 16 of the provided document.)

As such, the Marshall Patent is merely "old school" technology, over which Dr. Gorman's Invention is a significant advance that Southwest presently utilizes in its online flight booking system.

2. The Groff Patent

The Groff Patent discloses manually and/or "graphically" selecting an entry in a column, and then directing the search of that column for that value. The Groff Patent, however, does not disclose incremental searching as described in the '770 Gorman Patent. Further, the Groff Patent does not disclose a user searching using de novo entered search criteria. The Groff Patent only discloses searching based on a user's selection of values already present in the list. In a fashion similar to the Marshall Patent, to search for a term, a user must first find the term. The Groff Patent does not disclose incremental searching; the search criteria is not typed into a cell that responds on a character-by-character basis, instead the filter criteria is obtained by manually selecting a cell by, for example, using a mouse. (See, e.g., Fig. 5, p. 2 of the provided document.)

Also present in the art in the late 20th Century, although not referenced by Southwest, is the simple "FIND" feature of several programs, where a user types into a search box a character string and then directs the program to search for the entered character string.

B. The Character-by-Character Art Does Not Anticipate Dr. Gorman's Invention

The Character-by-Character Art in the second group of art are the references that disclose incremental searching. The Character-by-Character Art provided the focus for much of your discussion during the Rule 26(f) Settlement and Case Management Conference we held in Dallas. These references include (1) the 1978 EMACS reference, (2) the 1996 Que-Using Visual Fox Pro ("1996 Que-Fox Pro") reference, (3) the 1997 Visual FoxPro help file ("1997 Visual Fox Pro") reference, (4) the 1998 Delphi Developers Journal ("1998 Delphi") reference, and (5) the 1998 Quicken reference ("1998 Quicken"). These are briefly summarized in part below:

1. The 1978 EMACS Reference: The 1978 EMACS discloses "as soon as you type any character, some action is performed, and you see the resulting buffer." (p. 6 of the provided document)
2. 1996 QUE-FoxPro discloses the choice of using or not using incremental searching.

- (p. 6 of the provided document)
3. 1997 Visual Fox Pro discloses incremental searching down a list. (p. 1-5 of the provided document)
 4. 1998 Delphi discloses using an incremental search box to search through a long list. (p. 1 of the provided document)
 5. 1998 Quicken discloses incremental searching down a list. (p. 1-6 of the provided document)

All of the Character-by-Character Art references disclose variations on a theme: (1) a user enters text into a cell, (2) such entry then drives finding a row, or rows, in a list of names associated with the cell, and (3) such finding occurs on a character-by-character basis as the text is entered. The data found, for example, may represent the first match in the associated list that corresponds to the entered text. Thus, incremental searching is similar to a computerized search for a name in a telephone book. For example, if one is searching for "Josephine Smith" in a telephone book, one would first find the "S" pages, then the "Sm" pages, etc., until one found the correct page, and then run one's finger down the list of names until the "Josephine Smith" entry is found. Incremental searching, as disclosed in this second group of references, is merely a computerization of running ones finger down a printed list of names.

While Dr. Gorman's Invention includes a feature similar to incremental searching, and generally refers to this feature as entering filter criteria into an interactive filter cell, his Invention also contains a significant time-saving advance over this type of time-consuming "brute force" search. Dr. Gorman's Invention, in certain aspects and/or claims, also couples this feature with directing the program to operate a "sort procedure" on a character-by-character basis in response to the insertion of text into the interactive filter cell. This is distinguishable from the character-by-character searching of a list associated with an entry cell disclosed by the Character-by-Character Art references described above.

C. The Year 2000 References Are Not Prior Art to Dr. Gorman's Invention

Southwest also provided a third group of references: (1) The Raskin reference, (2) the Spaey Publication, and (3) the Trower Patent.

1. The Raskin Publication

The Raskin Reference was not published over a year before the priority date for Dr. Gorman's '770 Patent and therefore does not qualify as a 102(b) anticipatory reference.

2 & 3. The Spaey and Trower References

The Spaey Publication and the Trower Patent both have priority dates in 2000 before the priority date of Dr. Gorman's '770 Patent. However, examination of the documents already provided to Southwest demonstrate that Dr. Gorman's Invention was conceived and reduced to practice, and furthermore, disclosed at a conference almost a year before the filing of the '770 Patent's priority document, U.S. Provisional Patent Application Serial No. 60/246,035. (See, e.g., the notes describing the AABB Meeting in late 1999 at DS00000276; the description of the already-functional Tracker Invention dated in April 2000 at DS00000385 to 389; the description of the Tracker Invention dated in Dec. 1999 at DS00000407 to 409; and the H2K Philosophy document at DS00000423. Further, these documents can be supported by the testimony of those involved in bringing Dr. Gorman's Invention to fruition including Dr. Gorman himself and Dr. Tony Cooper.)

Therefore, the Raskin Reference, the Spaey Publication, and the Trower Patent are not prior art to Dr. Gorman's Invention.

D. Conclusion

The power of Dr. Gorman's Invention, in its broadest applications, is seen in its current widespread use and current commercial success. For example, Southwest's website along with several other similar airline reservation websites employs his technology. For a similar example, one can see Google's television commercial during the Super Bowl in 2010 and the current version of "Google Instant." The most advanced technology companies in the world have only recently caught up to Dr. Gorman's vision.

If incremental searching, or entering filter criteria into an interactive filter cell has been in the art since 1978, this begs the question as to why is the use of Dr. Gorman's Invention not more widespread? The answer is that incremental searching, by itself, was not a substantial advance. To take the world by storm, interactive search also requires the "sorting" step as provided in Dr. Gorman's Invention. The references provided to us by Southwest that use "incremental searching" only search down a list for results matching the inserted values. They do not sort the list; they do not perform a sorting procedure on the possible data sets to enable a user to efficiently identify the most desirable search object.

Therefore we are confident that none of the references provided to us by Southwest anticipate, or render obvious, the asserted claims of Dr. Gorman's '770 Patent.

III. Licensing Options

In this case, Deep Sky is requesting that the Court grant an injunction to stop Southwest from using its infringing website, as well as payment of monetary damages. As a measure of damages and the basis for a licensing fee, Deep Sky provides the below model for a reasonable royalty based on Southwest's annual revenues which utilize Dr. Gorman's patented technology. As shown in Table I below, this model presents two ranges for the royalty rate ("Low" & "High").

In the chart, Line 1 corresponds to Southwest's annual revenues of $10.4 billion for FY2009. Lines 2-4 shows the dollar amount of $253 million that is a function of the website contribution to total bookings (81%) and the increase in revenues from FY2008-2009 (3%). Lines 5-6 present an estimate of the increase in revenue due to Southwest's overall technical improvement of its website (3.33-5%). And finally, Lines 7-8 show an estimate of the increase in revenue due to the use of the infringing technology of the '770 Patent (3-25%). More specifically, Line 8 presents two different estimates for the annual increase in monetary value due to the Deep Sky technology: Low ($2.5 million) and High ($32 million). Thus, when employing a reasonable royalty rate with a range of .03% - .375% as applied to Southwest's website booking revenues, Line 8 presents a range of potential annual royalty payments from approximately $2.5 – 32 million.

Table I

DATA PARAMETER	LOW	HIGH
1. Overall revenue (2009)	$10.4 billion	$10.4 billion
2. % of revenue from Southwest website bookings	81%	81%
3. % of increased revenue from Southwest website over 2008	3%	3%
4. U.S. dollars increased revenue (lns. 1-3)	$253 million	$253 million
5. % of increased revenue attributed to Southwest website overall technical improvement	10%	50%
6. U.S. dollars increased revenue (ln. 5)	$25 million	$127 million
7. % of increased revenue attributed to Deep Sky technology	10%	25%
8. U.S. dollars increased revenue (annual royalty to Deep Sky) (ln. 7)	$2.5 million	$32 million

As shown above, if the case proceeds to trial, Deep Sky will seek a minimum royalty of several million dollars. However, given the inherent uncertainties and guaranteed costs of litigation, Deep Sky made its opening offer of $1,000,000 to Southwest in a good faith effort to produce the best outcome for both parties. Undoubtedly, Southwest does not relish the thought of spending significant sums on legal fees in the current case as it continues to pick up speed and heads toward resolution. Even if Southwest proceeds with a strategy of filing a Request for Reexamination of the '770 Patent, that process will also bring considerable costs and include an uncertain timeline and outcome. Indeed, one possible outcome of a reexamination procedure would be claims that more exactly read on Southwest's infringing activities while eliminating any conceivable conflict with potential prior art.

Accordingly, in order to settle the litigation and as a compromise demand, Deep Sky is presently willing to modify its offer and to discuss the following "early licensee" options as shown below in Table II:

Table II

LICENSE TYPE	Non-exclusive, limited to '770 infringing claims	Non-exclusive, to '770 plus all related patents	Non-exclusive, to '770 plus all related patents; Deep Sky consulting services to make further use of Tracker technology	Exclusive to '770 & '047 for air ticket reservation systems; includes Deep Sky consulting	Exclusive to '770 & '047 for all travel reservation systems; includes Deep Sky consulting
LICENSE FEE	$775,000	$800,000	$925,000	$1,000,000	$1,500,000

Deep Sky is willing to make these fully-paid-up license offers at a substantial discount, due in part to Southwest's good faith negotiations and status as an early licensee. The damages/licensing fees will undoubtedly increase for future licensees, and in the event that we must proceed with litigation we will be seeking damages and royalties at the much higher range described in the "High" column of Table I.

We again thank you for you and your client's professionalism and attention to this matter. It is apparent that you have conducted significant due diligence and provided excellent representation to your client. We nevertheless remain adamant that your client must obtain a license and compensate Deep Sky for past and future use of Dr. Gorman's Invention. We continue to desire to resolve amicably this matter with your client.

Sincerely,

Jonathan L. (Jay) Pettit
